Dear Faithful Friends,

We have great news this month, last Sunday we enjoyed a morning service with several of my Bible students at our home. Jimmy, Alex, and George were in attendance, and we had a wonderful time praising God, singing hymns, and spending time in prayer and in the word of God. In addition to our Sunday morning service, we still keep up our Bible studies during the week. I've found that time to be essential to discipleship for Jimmy and Alex. Please pray for Alex, as he has demonstrated an interest in being baptized. He recently took his college entrance exams. I ask that you pray for The Lord to close the door to universities not within His will. Please also pray for us this week, as we are searching for a convenient meeting place for church, and looking into something suitable for baptism. Next Sunday after the service, Alex, Jimmy, and I plan to go out together and witness within the community. Please pray that would go as planned, and that we would reach others with the Gospel.

Please pray for George, he continues to plod along during our Bible lessons. We are now exclusively focusing on The Gospel. George has never missed a lesson, and a couple weeks ago met my family while about in public. I believe that The Lord has used that for good, as George has shown a greater acceptance of Bible teaching since. Please pray for me to keep his need of Christ before him during our lessons. Yesterday, he referred to Jesus Christ several times as God, and I pray that with this knowledge George would soon receive Him as his Lord.

Please pray for Kathy. She has been a bit challenging for me to discern. Please pray that she would "lean not unto her own understanding," but rather recognize the literal context of The Bible. She will be taking a trip to California soon, and I hope to direct her to a church that I have great admiration for. Unfortunately, Melody has stopped her lessons, and I fear that she has been left almost persuaded. Though she was grateful for what she had been taught, she encountered some personal difficulty, and chose to embark down the path of "professional" opinion.

Thank you for praying for my family, we are all healthy, and doing well. When we first arrived, Timothy and I hardly knew anything about speaking Chinese, and I am amazed by how much things have changed from a year ago. The Lord is so good. It is only by The Grace of God, and the prayers of His saints, that this work will be done for His Glory. Thank you.

A servant,
Bro. Evan
